Dennis Spiteri's work can be seen at his country studio in Highlands, Victoria about two hours northeast of Melbourne, where he creates his large scale, musically-inspired paintings.

Built in 2004, the building also doubles as a gallery in which he is able to exhibit his work. It looks out onto the spectacular rolling landscape and distant mountains.

Annual exhibitions are usually held in March.

Details can be checked on the artist's website. Unless otherwise indicated on the site, visiting the studio is by appointment only.
