

Welcome, Wumindjika and G'day

I honestly can't believe how quickly this year is disappearing and that in 2 weeks it will be the 30th issue of my editorship of TGN. Wow, it only seems like yesterday that I was thinking, "Well everyone should have at least one new experience every day, guess this is mine...I hope I get it right." And next week's issue will see another new experience about to unfold for us all as TGN goes international well, at least the Editor does, for a well-earned break. That magnificent and incredibly welcoming country, Canada, is beckoning and as technology is now pretty much universal 3 out of the next 5 weeks will see TGN winging its way to you from "somewhere" in Canada. However apologies in advance if the ubiquitous Wi-fi isn't instantly available or I have difficulty getting my head around the myriad of time-zones spread across the continent. I will still be aiming for a consistent Sunday night delivery but this may vary slightly depending on local circumstances. Your forbearance and understanding is appreciated.

Until next week, Pauline

WATTLE DAY in AUSTRALIA

Over the years various people have promoted the idea of celebrating wattle day, on the first day of our Spring. AJ Campbell, a Victorian field naturalist and bird lover suggested in the 1880s we could make September 1st Wattle Day. It was seen as a way to express patriotism, for instance during World War I, sprigs of wattle were sent to diggers overseas. The golden burst of the wattles remains one the beautiful features of the Australian Bush, across the length and breadth of the land. The sight of the first wattles in Spring must have brought joy to all, both the aboriginal inhabitants and the early settlers. The bright blooms heralded the beginning of a season of growth and for the settlers, a new harvest. For the aborigines the wattles would be a sign of welcome warmth to come, and a harvest of wattle seeds for baking. All would have appreciated the beauty of the transformed landscape. The Wattle also heralds the change from winter into the times of flowering and breeding for so many of our wild species. In our area the wattles are already starting to flower. The Cootamundra Wattles and Silver Wattle are out in all their glory and Golden Wattle – the main Wattle Day species – is about to paint the landscape with gold.

On Sunday 2nd September we will be welcoming Spring with a celebration at Light Horse Park, from 10am - 1pm. All welcome but please RSVP 0428339989
With thanks to Lesley Dalziel for this timely article.

Conversations with Richard Fidler

Not all “good reads” necessarily have to be read. What? I hear you cry. Well for those of us who do lots of country driving CDs, MP3 thingys and podcasts are an option for whiling away the miles. Fortuitously I have just discovered a brilliant selection of these gems entitled “Conversations with Richard Fidler”. A name remembered from the Doug Anthony All-stars, he has grown up a bit since then, and now hosts an hour long radio show which is a delight. No matter who he interviews from the well-known... Jennifer Saunders, Magda Szubanski, or Bill Bailey...to a heap of “unknown” but, equally fascinating, people, you will be diverted and enthralled by the stories they have to tell. Getting out of the car at your destination could be problematic, as could driving along and wiping away tears of joy and/or sadness as the stories unfold - you won't want them to stop! And as for the Fine Cotton Ring-in Affair ... well, what could possibly have gone wrong? Pop into the Mobile Library to borrow or reserve one of the CDs.

Seymour in Spring - a festival of events

An amazing list of events encompassing all of Spring between 1 September to 30 November has been collated. The website already lists a number of events and is still growing. Seymour in Spring invite the community to peruse the events and help promote Seymour to visitors and friends www.seymouris.com.au Keep an eye out for the pocket size booklet which provides a listing of the events plus community group information which will be a handy guide for all. Copies can be found at the Seymour Visitor Information Centre at the Old Courthouse on Emily St or at shops around Seymour. There are many event highlights including - Seymour Show Off, Seymour Performers Workshop - One Act Play festival and Grease The Musical, Tastes of the Goulburn Food and Wine Festival, Art Beyond the Divide, guided nature and sustainability walks, Cheesemaking 101, kidding shed tours to see newly born baby goats, a unique vegetarian lunch, winery open days, outdoor cinema, Vic Fish Kids at the new fishing platform and much, much more. There is definitely something for everyone.

Rogaining anyone?

The 43rd Victorian Rogaining Championships are a cross country navigation event for teams on foot being held east of Strathbogie on 22-23 September 2018. There will be a 24-hour event over the weekend which forms the annual State championships; there is also a 6-hour event starting noon on the Saturday and finishing before dark. The bulk of the participants will be assembled to enjoy their rogaine by bushwalking in some superb terrain and challenging themselves at their own appropriate levels. Some of these teams might cover 5, 10 or 20 km and be unconcerned about speed and distance. Their enjoyment will come from finding the checkpoints, the creeks, the different forests and various animals. At a different level this is the pre-eminent annual rogaining event in Victoria with a proud history dating back to the founding of the sport in 1976; we expect some very fit teams who are elite navigators both during night and day. Several of these teams will cover more than 50 km during the 24 hours including some difficult terrain. Especially at the senior levels, Victoria has a talented group of over 60-year-old rogainers who are highly competitive at our regular world rogaining championships. Young adults are very much encouraged in what is a wholesome outdoor activity with a strong focus on appreciating and caring for the natural environment, teamwork, self-reliance and leadership skills. The course for 2018 is a mix of farmland, light forest and some difficult scarps, and teams will be encouraged to select where they go based upon their experience; advice is available on the day to assist the route choices.

All rogaining events welcome beginners. Details are available from vra.rogaine.asn where the nature of the sport and basic requirements are explained. More information on 43 VRC will be added closer to the event. Further enquiries?
