GEOLOGIST STRIKES a RICH VEIN of INTEREST at CREIGHTONS CREEK

They'd come from miles around to hear Neil Phillips—Professor of Earth Sciences at Melbourne University talk about the almost unique granite formations in our Strathbogie Ranges.

About 35 people attended the Creightons Creek Landcare Group's meeting to listen to the guest speaker and judging by the extended Q&A session they were not disappointed.

Professor Phillips identified the granite formations in our Strathbogie district as one of only three such global occurrences; the other two being the Cape of Good Hope in South Africa and one in Nova Scotia.

The crowd was entranced by the digital satellite images that clearly defined the local granite formations that, according to Prof. Phillips, were created as horizontal flows of magma at temperatures around 850degC. While the oldest rock formations in Victoria have been dated to 600 million years, we were told that the Strathbogie granite was probably only 370 million years old.

One of the defining features of the Strathbogie's granite is the abundant presence of Cordierite. This is the black flecking material that is common in our granite but which geologists in other parts of the world rarely encounter in a lifetime of study.

Getting Up Close & Personal with Cordierite in local granite samples after the Creightons Creek lecture.

NOTES FROM HIGHLANDS PRIMARY SCHOOL

By Meagan Callander—Principal HPS

Student of the Week Bonnie

For great participation in the Literature Festival and receiving such positive feedback from author Corinne Fenton. Well done!

Chook House Thank You's:

A huge thank you to Susan and Peter Krickic and Clay Buckland from Hillside Fencing and Weed Spraying for digging the holes for the poles for the chook house. Thank you to Tim Hayes who spent time at school on the weekend digging the trenches for the walls. Thank you to Dave Clarke for all his work in organising this project. The chook house is coming together.

Snow: When we returned to HPS from the Literature Festival in Flowerdale on Friday afternoon we were greeted by a blanket of snow covering our school grounds. It was a truly beautiful sight. Highlands PS was a popular tourist destination on Saturday with many families making the most of the snow. There was even snow left on Monday for some snow play.

“Dialogue: The Art of Elegant Conversation” a Fireside Concert at Broadford

Experience the cosy comfort of classical music in intimate surroundings by the fireside at “Broadford Salon” with the fourth concert in the current series. In a delightful mud brick venue with cathedral ceilings situated on 27 acres of bush, this is the perfect setting for such a concert. The programme features solos and duos for flute and violin, will explore the rich and varied repertoire for instrumental solo and duo in rarely performed works by JJ Quantz, JB de Boismortier, CPE Bach and JH Roman. Greg Dikmans and Lucinda Moon have been working together for over 25 years developing a fruitful collaboration built around an approach to historical performance practice that is characterised by careful scholarship combined with subtle, tasteful and, above all, unpretentious musicianship.

Date is Sunday 17 August at 4.00pm

ROMANTIC COMEDY AT FILM SOCIETY

On Friday 15th August at the Yea Shire Chambers the Murrindindi Film Society will screen in digital format the classic

1949 American romantic comedy

Adam’s Rib, starring Katharine Hepburn and Spencer Tracey.

Doors open at 6.45 for drinks & nibbles.

Considered the funniest of the many films these stars made together, it tells the story of two lawyers, married to each other, who find themselves on opposing sides in an attempted murder trial. The issues raised during the case create tension both in the courtroom and on the home front. The film raises concepts of male and female equality controversial at the time ; the original advertising tag line was Who Wears the Pants in Your Family? It is currently at number ten on the American Film Institute’s “Best Romantic Comedy” list.

We hope members will brave the cold weather to enjoy this amusing entertainment, an example of two great film actors at the top of their game. Guests and prospective members will be made welcome free of charge.

All enquiries to Jill Dwyer, 5797 2480 or jill.dwyer@bigpond.com.
